

Global Strategy Group

13-14 June, 2006, Washington

Agenda

TUESDAY, 13 JUNE
16:45-17:15	Welcome
17:15-19:30	Session one  Brainstorming: Scenarios for the future of US power Based on prior trends identifications by participants, the Group will develop several scenarios for the future of US power over the next 10 years and examine some of the implications of these scenarios for the global economy and international geopolitics.
20:00-22:00	Session two  Working dinner  The future of US power: Key issues and implications For this dinner, the Group will be divided into four tables. Each table will concentrate on discussing a key issue for the US and the world growing out of the opening brainstorming, in preparation for leading a session with the full Group the next day on this issue. Members are asked to evaluate not only the strategic implications of the issue they are examining, but also trends, actions, and policies that could alter a trend and/or correct for its most negative consequences.

WEDNESDAY, 14 JUNE
9:00-10:30	Session three Key issue 1: Full group discussion  The group which worked on this issue during the 13 June dinner will give an introductory presentation of no more than 10 minutes. The moderator will then engage the full group in a discussion debating the issue, its implications, and possible corrective trends and actions and policies.
10:30-10:45	Break
10:45-12:15	Session four Key issue 2: Full group discussion  The group which worked on this issue during the 13 June dinner will give an introductory presentation of no more than 10 minutes. The moderator will then engage the full group in a discussion debating the issue, its implications, and possible corrective trends and actions and policies.
12:15-13:45	Lunch and session five Key issue 3: Full group discussion  The group which worked on this issue during the 13 June dinner will give an introductory presentation of no more than 10 minutes. The moderator will then engage the full group in a discussion debating the issue, its implications, and possible corrective trends and actions and policies.
13:45-15:15	Session six Key issue 4: Full group discussion  The group which worked on this issue during the 13 June dinner will give an introductory presentation of no more than 10 minutes. The moderator will then engage the full group in a discussion debating the issue, its implications, and possible corrective trends and actions and policies.
15:15-15:30	Break
15:30-16:30	Session seven Ways forward