

Global Strategy Group

Washington DC, 28-29 June 2007

Agenda

THURSDAY, 28 JUNE
12:00-12:30	Welcome
12:30-14:30	Lunch and session one Tour de table What are the 1-2 most significant developments since the beginning of the year? Why is that?
14:45-16:30	Session two Are we getting to the end game in Iraq? What are the possible scenarios? What are the implications?
16:30-17:00	Coffee break
17:00-18:30	Session three Should we forget about America for the next two years? Assessing the risks of a lame duck, paralyzed president
20:00-22:00	Dinner and session four (Cosmos Club) Is the bear back? Should we just wait for Putin to leave the Kremlin or should we prepare to deal in the long-term with a resurgent Russia?
Friday, 29 June
08:30-09:30	Session five Should we prepare for a new wave of violence and volatility in the Middle East? What could the implications be?
10:00-10:15	Coffee break
10:15-11:45	Session six Is real change happening in Europe? If so what could this mean?
12:00-13:15	Session seven Are we entering a new economic order, and a new global economy? What would this mean? (the era of global financial capitalism, the Beijing consensus vs. the Washington consensus, a world weary of liberalization...)
13.15-14.30	Closing lunch