

Global Strategy Group

Washington DC, 4-5 December 2007

Tuesday, 04 December
15:30-16:00	Welcome
16:00-17:30	Session one Tour de table 2007 as the year of..., 2007 e year when... Members of the group are invited to select what they consider to be the most marking development of 2007, to explain why and to define one major implication of that development they see down the road in 2008
17:45-19:15	Session two When the global economy shifts: Assessing the implications of a multipolar economic world over the next 5 to 10 years
19:45-20:15	Drinks
20:15-22:00	Session three over dinner What will the US presidential race tell the world about America? What kind of signal will it send and what will be the implications?
Wednesday, 05 December
08:30-09:45	Session four And if the surge was successful in Iraq after all? What would this mean?
09:45-10:15	Coffee break
10:15-11:45	Session five Is China's drive becoming more or less sustainable? Assessing the turning point of the Olympics
12:00-13:45	Session six over lunch Europe's frantic search for identity and framework
14:00-15:30	Session seven Hot spots 2008